I moved my medical practice, as well as my family, to Oahu four years ago to start a private practice. I previously had worked for a large group in the Bay Area and wished to branch out on my own. Starting a new practice anywhere is a difficult undertaking, but especially here in Hawaii due to multiple factors. I can safely say that my practice would not be as successful and rewarding today if it was not for the assistance of Pacific Management Services. The paperwork and financing to start a practice is overwhelming in itself. Combining with that, the difficulty of managing an office, staff and billing would have greatly taken away from what I have been trained to do best, care for patients. Having a trustworthy and efficient business system, such as, Pacific Management Services, manage my practice, has allowed me to build a very successful practice over the past four years. The ability to see patients, perform surgery and then chart without having to micromanage my office allows me to enjoy being a physician and not a businessman. I would strongly recommend Pacific Management Services to any new physician or small-group starting a new practice, as well as an established practice wishing to return to simply taking care of patients and not running a business.

Sincerely,

Gregory Morris, D.P.M.
